Risks:	It is important that all people involved in a decision to permit a player to participate in a senior rugby competition at an age younger than eighteen years, understand that rugby is a contact sport and, like all contact sports, players are exposed to the risk of injury. This risk may be heightened where a player participates in a senior rugby competition at an age younger than eighteen years of age, where the player's physical development, skill level and experience are inferior to that of the players he or she will play against.
Considerations:	In assessing the suitability of a player to participate in a senior rugby competition at an age younger than eighteen years of age, the coach assessing the player and the player's parent or guardian should consider the following factors: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ What is the player's level of physical development (e.g. height, weight, build etc) when measured against potential playing colleagues? Is the player physically equipped to compete on an equal basis with players in the proposed senior rugby competition? ➤ Does the player have a high skill level; both specific to their playing position and in relation to the games fundamentals (e.g. tackle, pass, ruck, maul, scrum etc)? Is the player reasonably experienced and has the player gained that experience in a comparable standard of competition? ➤ What is the standard of competition in the proposed competition?
